4. Doing what protects democracy and freedom.

You should be able to live freely and safely in a diverse and open society. To this end, we are defending our freedom and our democracy against right-wing extremists who attack these values.

We safeguard the rule of law. With binding rules all across Europe, we stand together against corruption and nepotism, and against limitations to freedom of the press, womens' rights, and an independent judiciary.

5. Doing what preserves peace.

For you to be able to live in the EU in peace and freedom both now and in the future, we need a strong Europe that is increasingly independent from autocrats. This also means establishing our own energy supply across Europe by expanding renewables.

At the same time, we also support our allies across the world: because with the expansion of rail networks, renewable energy sources, and a secure water supply, they become more independent from autocratic regimes. In this way, we create infrastructure in our partner countries, strengthen cooperation with our allies, fight root causes of migration and displacement — and also open the door to new energy sources.

Moreover, by means of diplomacy, active foreign policy, and fair trade, we provide for security in insecure times — also tangibly for you in Germany.

Our leading candidate

Terry Reintke has her roots in Germany's Ruhr region. Because of this, she knows firsthand how important it is for the people in our country to take on the climate-neutral modernization of our economy. She fights with considerable experience and passion to renew our common prosperity and create secure jobs. She stands firmly against the political shift to the right in Europe and defends European democracy against Nazis and right-wing extremists.

1. Doing what counts!

We want to protect and strengthen Europe because it protects us and makes us strong. In doing so, we focus on the most important aspects: protecting the climate, social justice, and defending our democracy.
We do what counts.

Green policy is all about looking for and finding solutions together. For you. For everyone. For today and tomorrow.

Let's renew our prosperity together – in Germany and Europe.

Let's protect our climate and our livelihood together.

Let's defend our democracy against right-wing extremists together – for a better coexistence.

Let's do what counts, together.

2. Doing what protects our prosperity and climate.

So that energy remains affordable and crisis-resilient for you and the economy, we are building power lines to transport clean and cheap energy from the sunny south and the windy north to the places where it's needed.

We are strengthening the economy and protecting the climate, for example by making green hydrogen usable everywhere so that energy-intensive industries such as steel production also have a future in Europe. By connecting European rail lines, we make it easier for all citizens to discover our continent by train.

All of this is part of the Green Deal. With it, we are making Europe climate-neutral, modern, and competitive. This European Parliament election will decide its future.

3. Doing what protects social justice.

We are fighting for a social welfare system that you can rely on. This includes equitable working conditions and strong unions, secure jobs, and fair salaries.

In order for all EU citizens to make ends meet with their income, we want to secure appropriate, statutory minimum wages all across Europe. For Germany, this means we will raise the minimum wage to around 14 euros.

In this way, we protect Europeans from poverty and marginalization, and ensure that our prosperity reaches everyone.
